I, the Lord of Sea and Sky

- 1 I, the Lord of sea and sky,
- 2 I, the Lord of snow and rain,
- 3 I, the Lord of wind and flame,
- I have heard my peo ple cry.
- I have borne my peo-ple's pain.
- I will tend the poor and lame.

All who dwell in dark and sin have wept for love of them. will set a feast for them.

my hand will save. They turn a - way. My hand will save.

I, who I will Fin-est

of night, made the stars break their hearts of stone, bread will pro-vide will make their dark - ness bright. I give them hearts for love till their hearts be sat - is - fied.

Who will bear my light to them? will speak my word to them.

will give my life

Whom shall send? Whom shall send? Whom shall I send?

to them.

The stanzas here need to be understood as representing the voice of God, while the refrain (based on Isaiah 6:8) is the faithful human response to God's call. This becomes clearer if a leader or small group sings the stanzas, with the congregation joining on the refrain.

Go, My Children, with My Blessing 54

Because this Welsh melody usually sets evening texts, the author was asked to create one for use in daytime. His recasting of the Aaronic blessing in Numbers 6:22–27 imagines that passage as a benediction that might be spoken by God at the conclusion of a worship service.
